Firefighters earn bragging rights

Staff Sgt. Derrick Allen and Senior Airman Timothy Vanden Haak give each other a high five after a circuit workout Nov. 30. The Whiteman AFB team earned the silver medal this year at the world firefighter competition held at Myrtle Beach, S.C. The challenge requires maximum effort in minimal time as it simulates the exertion needed to fight a fire and rescue a victim on a timed course. Vanden Haak placed 11th in the tandem portion of the world challenge out of 485 competitors. Allen and Vanden Haak are fire protection specialist assigned to the 509th Civil Engineer Squadron, Fire Protection Flight.

Senior Airman Timothy Vanden Haak, an emergency rescue Airman from Whidbey Island, Wash., placed 11th in the tandem competition World Firefighter challenge XX Nov. 19, 2011 at Myrtle Beach, S.C. Vanden Haak competed against 485 firefighters and finished the course in 1.33.17. Vanden Haak is assigned to the 509th Civil Engineer Squadron, Fire Protection Flight at Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo. "I followed in my father Henry Vanden Haak's footsteps, who's a civilian chief firefighter in Oak Harbor, Wash.," said Vanden Haak. "I felt it was in my blood to give back to my community while striving for perfection in everything I do."

The firefighter combat challenge requires maximum effort in minimal time as it simulates the exertion needed to fight a fire and rescue a victim on a timed course. Air Force fire fighters competed against their peers from Australia, Canada, Europe and the United States.

"Qualifying to compete in World Firefighter Challenge was no easy feat," said Vanden Haak, "I have competed in roughly 45 regional events

A piece of the 13th Bomb Squadron's history paid a visit to Whiteman Air Force Base Dec. 2, as an A-26 attack bomber in the Battle of the Bulge was flown in.

Roger Woolsey, chief executive officer of Million Air, a private aviation company, made the 2 ½-hour flight from Houston in the aircraft early that morning. He said A-26 Bombers had the longest service in the military, being used in World War II, Korea and Vietnam, and they were not retired until the early 1970s.

Woolsey said the A-26 he brought to Whiteman AFB had served in the Pacific and Atlantic theaters in World War II and in Korea. "I'll use any excuse to take it onto a base," he said, adding that his purpose is to keep the heritage of the aircraft alive.

Lt. Col. Mark Pye, 13th Bomb Squadron commander, said the aircraft is "a living testament to the sacrifices and great strength of those who went before us."

Whiteman Spirit Day -- Static display

A B-2 Spirit and an A-10 Thunderbolt II are scheduled to be on display at Base Operations from 9 a.m.-noon today, allowing Team Whiteman members to bring their families to see the aircraft. Security Forces will be on post and can answer questions about regulations. The aircraft will be roped off and patrons cannot enter restricted areas. Personal cameras are not permitted unless approved by a squadron photo representative. See your security manager for an approved list and further details. Static displays are weather-permitting and members are responsible for their guests while on the flightline.

DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE
HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH AIR FORCE (AIR FORCES STRATEGIC) (AFGSC)
BARKSDALE AIR FORCE BASE, LOUISIANA

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL EIGHTH AIR FORCE PERSONNEL
From: 8 AF (AFSTRAT)/T/CC
Barksdale AFB LA 71110-2072

Subject: Eighth Air Force Commander's Vector

I am truly honored and humbled to be leading "The Mighty Eighth," JFCC Global Strike, and Task Force 204. We have an amazing, elite team of dedicated professionals! The purpose of this Memo is to outline my initial perspective and lay out my priorities and intent.

Today our military is fully engaged in operations across the globe, enabling Combatant Commanders to successfully execute their missions. As we look to the future, we see plenty of challenges and uncertainty: potential for more violent extremism, shifting regional balances of power, and the proliferation of advanced technology. Added to this a fiscal environment unlike any we have seen in over 30 years. With the fiscal challenges we face as a nation, preserving the readiness and combat capability of our forces is one of our prime imperatives. It is therefore critical that we prioritize what is truly important while always seeking innovative, alternative, and smarter ways to accomplish our essential mission.

Mission: Safeguard America's interest through strategic deterrence and global combat power. We will be America's best prepared force to apply global strike capability across the spectrum of conflict should deterrence fail.

Vision: An integrated Team – mission focused & highly disciplined – that continually improves people and forces while strengthening both our nuclear culture and conventional global strike capabilities. We will remain the nation's most relevant, prepared, and decisive warfighting units.

Priorities:

1. Deter. Guarantee America's strategic nuclear force remains safe, secure, and effective.
2. Defend. Continuously improve our Global Strike capability by being able to rapidly hold any target in the world as risk with nuclear or conventional weapons to safeguard America and our friends worldwide.

3. Integrate. Win today's fight as a full mission partner with USSTRATCOM and Combatant Commands worldwide while planning for all of tomorrow's challenges.

4. Prepare. Conduct the most demanding and realistic training, exercises and assessments; learn and adapt so we are ready to smartly execute deliberate, contingency or crisis plans to meet any unforeseen challenge.

5. Execute. Enhance our ability to employ global striking power and ISR with the command and control operations rapidly, effectively, efficiently, and decisively – across the globe.

Accomplishing these five priorities will create a positive feedback loop that will continue to bolster the United States' reputation as the world's most responsive and capable strategic actor. We will continue to provide America with a wide range of strategic options for rapid power projection with minimal vulnerability and maximum precision.

Previous generations committed their blood, sweat, and lives to defend America and make us the nation we are today. We in the Eighth Air Force, JFCC-GS, and TF 204 recognize that we stand on the backs of giants who came before us. Our forbearer's courage and services during previous conflicts set the standard for those who serve today. Yet, those who serve in the Armed Forces today have no less sense of commitment, courage, and purpose – and will meet any challenge.

As President Kennedy once said, "If not us, who? If not now, when?" It is now our time in the breach. We can only accomplish these priorities if we do them together – as a united team. Let's make a difference, make us all better, and make our service matter. Carpe Diem!

Thank you and your families for your selfless service and sacrifice.

Commander's Corner

Team Whiteman,

Almost seven months after Air Force officials announced plans to transfer munitions squadrons responsible for nuclear mission support from Air Force Materiel Command to Air Force Global Strike Command, the transfer was completed here Dec. 1 with the inactivation of the 19th Munitions Squadron and the activation of the 709th Munitions Squadron.

This is a significant event not just for Team Whiteman, but for our brethren throughout AFGSC. The highly anticipated realignments will allow for enhanced unity of command within a single MAJCOM responsible for most of the nuclear operational mission. What does this mean? It is another step in strengthening the nuclear enterprise by focusing the Air Force's nuclear arsenal under Global Strike Command.

The decision to make this change is a reflection of the organizational maturity of Global Strike Command and the need to establish organizational structures that best achieve efficiencies and standard processes and policies. Whiteman has been an integral part of the steady progress the Air Force has made over the past two years to improve the structure, culture, and processes of the nuclear enterprise. Now that the 709th MUNS is part of our wing, we will continue to build upon that success.

The recently activated 709th Munitions Squadron has realigned in place and will remain about the same size, so disruptions to operations and people at the unit will be minimal. This is critical as we plan for next week's Nuclear Surety Exercise. We need to be prepared to put our best foot forward before we hang up our hats and close the book on 2011.

Give me, your supervisors, co-workers and peers one last push before our thoughts turn to the holiday and we spend time with our family and friends.

Defensor Vindex.

-Brig. Gen. Scott Vander Hamm, Commander

Remaining resilient amid uncertainty

By Col. Bruce Smith
366th Fighter Wing

MOUNTAIN HOME AIR FORCE BASE, Idaho (AFNS) -- With the recent announcements from Air Force officials regarding civilian workforce restructuring and continuation of the enlisted date of separation rollback program, there is understandable potential for a feeling of fear about the uncertainty of what the future may hold.

While these changes may not directly impact all of us, not one of us is unaffected by these changes -- we are in this together as Airmen, civil servants and wingmen.

We need to focus not on what we don't know, but what we do know. We know that we are the world's finest Air Force because of our personnel, both military and civilian. We know that in order to move forward boldly into an uncertain future, we need to focus on what makes us great and improve upon it -- our people.

"It's important, now more than ever, we continue to build our strength," said Gen. Norton Schwartz, the Chief of Staff of the Air Force. "Good wingmen stay ready for the mission -- physically and emotionally."

It is with this goal in mind we need to stress the importance of resiliency and how the Comprehensive Airman Fitness concept can help all of us stay fit to fight any fight, mental or physical. The recent news and subsequent battle with fear is no less a real fight than being engaged in physical combat.

"Being fit to fight means more than just being physically fit. With all of the demands on our Airmen and their families, psychological and emotional health are just as important to our overall fitness, and to our readiness as a command," said Gen. William Fraser, the former commander of Air Combat Command.

Some might argue the general's words apply only to Airmen.

The general's words ring true for more than just Airmen in ACC. Our Air Force consists of 10 commands filled with military and civilian personnel who all have one thing in common in spite of rank, age, gender location or education -- they are all humans whose lives are affected by their mental, physical, social and spiritual fitness.

"The A-26 is in the middle of the 95-year history of the 13th," he said. "We are proud to see a historic piece of 13th and the Air Force."

Pye said having the A-26 on base presented "a unique opportunity for younger guys involved with the B-2" — the stealth bomber that calls Whiteman home.

Maj. Tim Sutton, 13th BS B-2 pilot, climbed into the cockpit of the A-26 said it i s hard to compare it with the B-2. He said in the A-26 there were no ejection seats, one seat was from an old tractor, the cabin is not pressurized and it has no heater.

"That's hard because even in summer, it can get to freezing at altitude," Sutton said. "In fact," Woolsey said of his Friday morning flight: "The last 100 miles or so, it got kind of cold."

Sutton said many Airmen were interested in checking out the A-26.

"We envy the good old days of flying," he said, adding that operating one would be like going to a cabin in the woods with no TV or computer access compared with flying the high-tech B-2.

"Still, a lot of guys here are dying to fly this," Sutton said.

According to the 509th Bomb Wing History Office, the 13th BS flew the A-26 from 1945 to 1956. Also, when North Korea invaded South Korea in 1950, the squadron, flying A- and B-26s, conducted interdiction missions during daylight raids on enemy troops and lines.

Pye said the A-26 was converted to the B-26 and was the primary aircraft used in Korea. He said it was an eye-opening experience to see what the squadron forefathers used to overcome the enemy.

Woolsey takes the aircraft to bases and air shows across the country, making between 35 and 40 appearances a year. His goal is to keep the A-26's memory alive for those who flew her and those she helped save, he said.

Speaking of those with ties to the aircraft who come out to see it at air shows, Woolsey said: "You can spot them by tears, the reverence they exhibit. They will say, 'My father, my uncle flew one of these or was saved by one of these.'"

Friday was the first time he brought the plane to Whiteman.

"It means a lot because it is part of their heritage," he said.

While calling the aircraft very reliable — it only had two minor mechanical issues during the entire 2011 air show season — Woolsey said it does not have one notable issue.

"She does drink a lot of oil," he said. "As we like to say, 'You fill her with oil and check the fuel.'"

Warrensburg, Whiteman remember Pearl Harbor

WARRENSBURG, Mo.— Col. Andrew Gebara, 509th Bomb Wing vice commander, was the keynote speaker at a ceremony outside the Johnson County Courthouse Thursday to help remember the attack on Pearl Harbor. Local civic organizations, elected officials and members of Team Whiteman attended the Remembering Pearl Harbor 70th Event.

By Capt. John Severns

509th Bomb Wing Public Affairs

Exactly 70 years ago Thursday, America unexpectedly entered World War II during a surprise attack by the Imperial Japanese Navy on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Six Japanese aircraft carriers launched more than 300 fighters, bombers and torpedo planes against the American fleet anchored in the harbor.

More than 2,400 Americans were killed, including the man for whom Whiteman Air Force Base would later be named.

Local civic organizations, elected officials and members of Team Whiteman helped remember the attack during a ceremony outside the Johnson County Courthouse Thursday. Col. Andrew Gebara, 509th Bomb Wing vice commander, was the keynote speaker.

“Pearl Harbor, the 9/11 of the twentieth century, was an unmitigated disaster for the United States,” Gebara said. “Before the day was over, the Japanese killed 2,402 Americans, wounded 1,282 more, and sank or damaged 16 ships and 188 aircraft – just in Hawaii.”

The disaster was felt by all Americans, the colonel said, but it hit especially hard for one family in Central Missouri, who waited desperately for word of their son, George Allison Whiteman, a young Army Air Forces pilot stationed at Bellows Field near Pearl Harbor.

Whiteman, the eldest of ten children of John and Earlie Whiteman, was born Oct. 12, 1919, at the Wilkerson farm near Longwood, Mo., in Pettis County. He graduated from Smith-Cotton High School in Sedalia and attended the Rolla School of Mines in Rolla, Mo., prior to enlisting in the service in 1939.

In the spring of 1940, Whiteman received orders to report to Randolph Field, Texas, for training as an aviator. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps Nov. 15, 1940, and volunteered for duty in Hawaii early the following year.

As the sun rose over Oahu on the morning of Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor began. Lieutenant Whiteman got to his P-40B aircraft at Bellows Field and had just lifted off the runway when a burst of enemy gunfire hit his cockpit, wounding him and throwing the plane out of control. The plane crashed and burned just off the end of the runway.

“At a time when the sky was full of enemy aircraft—353 to be exact—George Whiteman, without thought to his own safety, ran TO his aircraft,” Gebara said. “At a time when I’m sure most others were taking cover, Whiteman coolly got to his fighter, started it, taxied it out, and took off in the middle of what he had to know was one of the biggest targets in the raid—the Bellows runway. He moved forward, despite the fact that he had to know he was going to almost certain death.”

The news of Lieutenant Whiteman’s death reached his family at 10:13 p.m. Dec. 7. In an interview with the Sedalia Democrat that evening, his mother, Earlie Whiteman, said: “It’s hard to believe. It might have happened anytime, anywhere. We’ve got to sacrifice loved ones if we want to win this war.” She gave the reporter a photograph of her son sitting in an aircraft with the inscription “Lucky, lucky me.”

Lieutenant Whiteman is believed to be one of the first Airmen killed during the assault which marked the United States’ entry into World War II. For his gallantry that day, he was posthumously awarded the Silver Star, the Purple Heart, the American Defense Medal with a Foreign Service clasp, the American Campaign Medal, the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign medal with one bronze star, and the World War II Victory Medal.

Another honor waited for Lt. Whiteman when, 14 years later, the newly reopened Sedalia Air Force Base was renamed Whiteman Air Force Base in his honor.

More than 250 were in attendance and awaited the decorated tree outside Mission's End in conjunction with a Menorah lighting, marking Hanukkah.

Military members, civilians and their families were invited to witness and take part in the event.

Following an invocation from Chaplain (Capt.) Jeffery Scott, Brig. Gen. Scott Vander Hamm, 509th Bomb Wing commander, gave a welcome speech before lighting the tree, which was the done by inviting children to help turn on the switch.

Following the tree lighting, members of Team Whiteman were given refreshments. A children's bingo was held for children.

The program was hosted by the Whiteman Community Activity Center, Mission's End, the 509th Force Support Squadron Marketing Department and the Youth Center. The event was sponsored by Northrop Grumman.

An Airman's Career

By Airman 1st Class Montse Ramirez
509th Bomb Wing Public Affairs

Like many Airmen Col. Theresa Rodriguez, 509th Medical Group commander, decided to come into the Air Force right after school to pursue a life of adventure, pride and satisfaction.

The Jackson, Miss. native said the Air Force was mostly what she expected. She met new people and gained new experiences, but there were other things she didn't expect.

"I had been in a little over a year when I lost my mom," she said. "I took emergency leave and I didn't make it in time.

"The next year I wanted to take leave on Mother's Day to go lay flowers at her grave site but we had an exercise and I couldn't go," Rodriguez said. "I wondered 'what did I get myself into?'"

She said she luckily she had a great boss who helped her get through the tough times and encouraged her not to give up on the Air Force just yet.

"She told me to try another assignment before I made a decision to get out," Rodriguez said. "That was the best advice I ever received. I think I just had a little trouble with the initial adjustment and having to deal with that crisis."

Without giving the Air Force a second chance she said she would've never gotten the opportunity to live in Japan or see the world.

"You have a choice to make your life better no matter where you come from," she said. "I know the military isn't for everyone but the fact people join the Air Force means something attracted them to join."

Rodriguez encouraged Airmen to do the best they can while they are in and take advantage of the opportunities, so if they do decide to get out they can transition into the civilian world more prepared than they were when they came in.

"Try to at least get your associate degree done and learn as much as you can from your career," she said. "You never know how it can benefit you down the line."

Remain Continued from Page 2

It's almost certain that some will look at the news and proverbial writing on the wall and think there is no hope.

That hope is not gone. As long as there is an Airman willing to uphold his end of the Airman's Creed, no one will be left behind and we will not fail. We need to be good wingmen, especially today, and watch out for our fellow servants, civilian and military alike. We need to be innovative, conscientious, frugal and resilient as we look to the days ahead. The future may seem bleak, but it is our future. What are we going to make of it?

What is certain is that as we forge the way ahead in these uncertain times, we must fight that fear so as not to let it paralyze us, cause us undue stress or even endanger our wellbeing. We must remain resilient.

This Weekend at the Movies

In Time

Dec. 10, 7 p.m.

Justin Timberlake, Amanda Seyfried -- Welcome to a world where time is money -- literally -- and where many must die for a few to be immortal. The wealthy live forever, while the poor, like the rebellious Will Salas, have to beg, borrow and steal enough minutes to make it through another day. When Will is falsely accused of murder, he takes a beautiful hostage rich with time, who ultimately joins his quest to bring down the system... as Will's clock ticks down to zero. PG-13 - violence, some Genre: Sci-Fi Thriller. 122 minutes.

Puss in Boots

Dec. 11, 3 p.m.

Antonio Banderas, Salma Hayek -- Long before he even met Shrek, the notorious fighter, lover and outlaw Puss in Boots becomes a hero when he sets off on an adventure with the tough and street smart Kitty Softpaws and the mastermind Humpty Dumpty to save his town. This is the true story of the cat, the myth, and the legend... The Boots. PG - some adventure action and mild rude humor. Genre: Animation. 90 minutes.

Call the movie line at 660-687-5110 for more information. Cash or check only.

**Movies are $4.50 for adults and $2.25 (3-11 years). Doors open 30 minutes prior to show time.*

Angels

Staff Sgt. Derrick Allen opens the fire hydrant while doing circuit training to keep his skills sharp Nov. 30. The Whiteman AFB team of Allen, Vanden Haak, Airman 1st Class Anthony Beaudry, Master Sgt. Mark Belton, and Christopher Finkes earned the silver medal this year at the world firefighter competition at Myrtle Beach, S.C. The challenge requires maximum effort in minimal time as it simulates the exertion needed to fight a fire and rescue a victim on a timed course. Allen is a fire protection specialist assigned to the 509th Civil Engineer Squadron fire protection flight.

with my Whiteman peers Staff Sgt. Derrick Allen, Airman 1st Class Anthony Beaudry, Master Sgt. Mark Belton, and Christopher Finkes, and finding funding to go to all the events is not always easy.”

The Whiteman firefighters held several car wash fundraisers to raise enough money to be able to travel to the spread-out regional events.

Finkes, the fire team captain, keeps the team in shape with lots of circuit training and daily workout come greater routines. With the increasing complexity of modern industrialized life hazards. These hazards have increased the skills needed for firefighting and have broadened of the firefighter rescuer's remit.

The Air Force operates in an environment unlike any other, and therefore needs firefighters unlike any other. Between the workouts and the competitions, the Whiteman Fire Protection Airmen keep their lifesaving skills sharply honed.

The Whiteman team established their place at the world firefighter combat challenge by taking home the second place silver medal. The team also earned bragging rights as well as community recognition among the Whiteman Fire Protection Airmen by proving they are fit to save a life.

“Fire protection is intense but very rewarding, as not only will you be putting out fires, but you’ll also be saving lives and giving back to the community,” said Vanden Haak.

Staff Sgt. Derrick Allen (right) and Senior Airman Timothy Vanden Haak run up a five story tower in full fire protection gear to practice honing their skills Nov. 30.

FREE Classified Advertising in the Whiteman Warrior

READ ALL RULES BEFORE PLACING AN AD

1. Advertising is free to all active-duty, guard and reserve military members and civil servants who work on base or at the MoARNG in Warrensburg only. Military or civil service rank must be included in the space for "rank." We do offer free advertising to retired military members.
2. Ads of a commercial nature such as baby-sitting, lawn maintenance, house cleaning, product sales, apartments or houses for rent, work-at-home opportunities or any other service in which the person makes a profit must be prepaid. Paid ads must be placed directly through the Sedalia Democrat at 1-800-892-7856, dropped off at 700 S. Massachusetts Ave., Sedalia, Mo., 65301 or e-mailed to theclassifieds@sedaliademocrat.com. They accept VISA, MasterCard, cash, personal check or money order.
3. Free ads are for one-time sale of personal items only. Free ads can't be placed for churches, groups, clubs, organizations or friends not affiliated with the military. Each item must be sold for $150 or less.
4. Only one free ad*, maximum 30 words, will be allowed to run at any given time by the same household, for a maximum of eight weeks. Ads over the 30-word maximum will be edited at the publisher's discretion.
- *People who are PCSing may place more than one ad and sell the items at any price.
5. Include your home phone in the ad so people can contact you. USE OF DUTY PHONES IN ADS IS AGAINST AIR FORCE REGULATIONS.

6. Print legibly, and place punctuation and spaces where necessary. Use only one word per line.
7. Free ads aren't taken over the phone. They must be dropped off at or mailed to the 509th Bomb Wing Public Affairs Office, 1081 Arnold Ave Blvd, Bldg 59, Whiteman AFB, Mo., 65305. Ads may also be faxed to 660-687-7948.
8. Many offices on base are using old forms**. If you would like a copy of the new ad form to keep in your office, call 687-6123 and we'll fax a new form for your use. Or, you can download it at <http://www.whiteman.af.mil> and click on "Whiteman Warrior Classified Ad Form."
9. Homes for sale that are listed with a realtor must be paid for. Only people who are PCSing and selling homes FSBO (for sale by owner) qualify as a free ad.
10. Free yard sale ads are for active-duty, guard, reserve and retired military members living on or off base. People who live on base must have their yard sale approved by the housing office first.
11. The deadline for placing new ads, canceling or making changes to ads is 10 a.m. Friday, one week before desired publication.
12. Ads that don't meet these guidelines will not run. Free advertising is a privilege extended to you by the publisher, and your cooperation is greatly appreciated. Submissions do not guarantee publication. Publication is on a space available basis.
